

Canadian Summer Camp Research Project

A six year study by the University of Waterloo, Ontario, Canada

Research confirms that summer camp experience for young people accounted for significant positive growth in:

- 1) Attitude toward physical activity.
- 2) Self-esteem and self confidence.
- 3) Emotional intelligence.
- 4) Social interaction & citizenship.
- 5) Environmental awareness.
- 6) Transfer of learning to home and school.

Six good reasons to send your child to camp this summer!

For complete information
on this study contact:

Dr. Troy Glover
tdglover @uwaterloo.ca

Dr. Stephen Fine
sfine@alumni.utoronto.ca